

INDIGO

PROJECT TYPE COMMUNITY MASTER PLAN
SIZE 300 AC

A new agrihood community in Richmond, Indigo is envisioned as a walkable, mixed-use community focused on wellness and local food production. By incorporating a six-acre, human-scaled farm within the village core, the project seeks to connect residents with the food they eat in new and engaging ways. A system of meadows and pocket parks establish linkages throughout the community. A fine-grained mix of housing products front onto the meadows and streets, activating both while providing safety and fostering interaction among residents.
